Description

This class will felt with a resist to create a hat or bag. Thin shingles of wool fleece will be layered (for strength) and melded together through warm water and agitation. The final layer can be adorned with other yarns, sparkly thin materials, thin fabric, or curly locks of fleece. Class will use a plastic resist to create the interior space. Once the fleece is firmly felted, the resist is removed, and the two layers are opened into the desired shape. All will be revealed!

Prerequisites for Participants:

No experience necessary

Materials to be provided by/additional instructions for students:

Participants should bring old towels, any fleece you want to use, and ideas, drawings, or pictures of felt hats that you want to produce. Instructor will bring a selection of adornment materials but bring any special materials you wish to include.
